Break, Break, Break,
 On thy cold gray stones, O sea!
 And I would that my tongue could utter
 The thoughts that arise in me.
 O, well for the fisherman's boy,
 That he shouts with his sister at play!
 O, well for the sailor lad,
 That he signs in his boat on the bay!
 And the stately ships go on
 To their haven under the hill;
 But O for the touch of a vanished hand,
 And the sound of a voice that is still!
 Break, Break, Break,
 At the foot of thy crags, O sea!
 But the tender grace of a day that is dead
 Will never come back to me.

Lord Tennyson

b. B. Identify the Register of the following passage and point out its [15] important features.

Buddhists do not share most of the core beliefs of historical Christianity and many of the less critical beliefs accepted by some Christians. Buddhism does not teach: An original golden era in the Garden of Eden, and a subsequent fall of humanity; Original sin shared by all present-day humans, derived from Adam and Eve; A worldwide flood in the time of Noah, causing the greatest human genocide in history; The need for a sinless personal savior whose execution enabled individual salvation through atonement.

Life after death: Almost all religions teach that a person's personality continues after death. In fact, many religious historians believe that this belief was the prime reason that originally motivated people to create religions. Christianity and Buddhism conceive of life after death in very different forms:

Buddhism teaches that humans are trapped in a repetitive cycle of birth, life, death and rebirth. Each successive rebirth may be into a better, a worse life, or a similar life, depending upon the person's Karma -- the sins and merits that have accumulated during their present and previous lives. One's goal is to escape from this cycle and reach Nirvana. Once this is attained, the mind experiences complete freedom, liberation and non-attachment. Suffering ends because desire and craving -- the causes of suffering -- are no more.

Christianity has historically taught that everyone has only a single life on earth. After death, one's beliefs and/or actions are evaluated in the Final Judgment. An eternal life awaits everyone. Depending on the judgment, it will be either in Heaven or Hell. There is no suffering in Heaven; only joy. Torture is eternal without any hope of cessation for the inhabitants of Hell.
